

PERSONAL STATEMENT

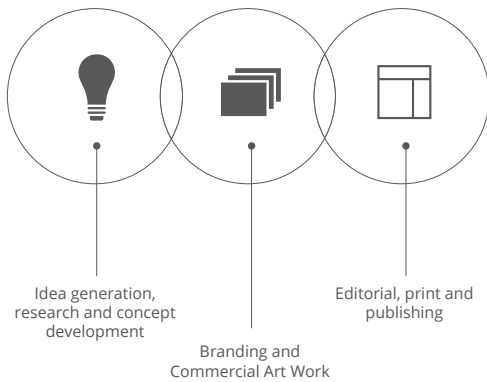

I am passionate young designer who is on a sandwich year taking in as much experience I can, learning and being a valuable asset to the company I work for.

I love everything that has to do with Graphic design; Packaging, web design, Industrial design and I feel a true devotion to advertising and commercial work. As an intern I have already gain experience working whilst studying on a BA at London College of communication. I don't take criticism and feedback personally I love receiving them more like, it's only way one can development and become better! I love working with people, especially if they have the same passion I have for what they do.

Dear Sir/Madam:

I am writing you because I wish to work for the company and the innovative work the design team creates, I am currently on a sandwich year and as such I am applying as an intern, where we both can benefit from each other.

I believe this position is an ideal role for me and that I can make a valuable contribution to company through the work I will do, given the opportunity to do so.

Throughout high school there was a trend where I was taught to sit down shut up and get the answer right, long story short, I sat down shut up and got it wrong. I'm the type of person who thinks through my body, through movement, music and endless expression with emotions and passion that becomes this ultimate driving force for my creativity and thought process. I got it wrong because this doesn't fit into the model they wanted me to subscribe to.

And as an intern I understand that my skills and communication towards design needs developing, nonetheless I've worked with project mangers and designer across London pitching ideas and building a bond through those ideas with the client/companies. If you take me one for this position I'll give you my best. I will bring as much flair as possible to any project I am involved in. In doing so this should lead to a rich outcome during which I'll be taking in as much as can in that period of time, and delivering the highest above and beyond what is expected of me. In terms of getting a better understanding of the design world and understanding a design situation, developing my skills and putting them into a productive place where it can beneficial for the company, the people I work with and myself.

Please find attached my CV and portfolio. If you have any questions or require any further information then please do not hesitate to contact me.

Kind regards,
Damion Robinson
